colored youths, are rivals for the smiles and hand of Ida Venable. Several days ago Graves met John and Ida strolling on Pennsylvania street, near Walnut. Ralph accused Ida of being false to him, which the she choose between them. She glanced from one to the other, and finally stated, with some hesitation and a good deal of diplomacy, that her heart overflowed with love for both, and that she could not choose. Graves thereupon became greatly enraged, drew a huge pocket knife and swore he would be revenged. Hightower fled precipitately, pursued by his rival, who failed to reach his man, as the latter took refuge in a tree. Graves then turned his attention to Ida, who was standing on the scene of the meeting in despair. Catching sight of him approaching with the knife in his hand, which he waved threateningly, she ran south to Michigan street, thence into the drug store at the corner, with Graves pursuing. Graves heeded not the presence of the clerk and several customers, but chased the girl behind a counter, and was about to "sep'rate her frum her bref," as he expressed it, when those present interfered. The jealous lover disappeared, but a warrant was afterwards sworn out for his arrest, charging him with assault and battery. The trial was held Thursday afternoon in Justice Daniels's court, and yesterday afternoon Graves was fined $25 and costs, and left the court room disgusted with life and love.

The membership is composed of young men, and each has the privilege of inviting one guest. The dance programme was sixteen numbers, with a variety of the latest dance movements. It was printed on a long narrow card, with cord and chenille tassel. The ladies were handsome evening gowns of delicate colors. An orchestra furnished the music for dance and promenade. At midnight an elaborate banquet of eight courses was served at the Denison. The tables were handsomely spread and a merry party surrounded them till a late

HOWARD-ELLIS. MARTINSVILLE, Ind., April 13.-A. W. Howard, editor and proprietor of the Owen County Journal, and Miss Anna Ellis, of this city, were married to-day just at noon at the home of the bride's parents. The wedding was a quiet affair, being a surprise to even some relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Howard left on the afternoon train for Spencer, where they will reside.

Presbyterian Church, officiated.

Couldn't Find the Snicide. A man giving his name as H. J. Gates and his residence as No. 73 Russell avenue, called at the coroner's office yesterday and stated that J. W. Carney, boarding at the Waverly House, on South Illinois street, had informed him that Etta Platt, residing at No. 187 West Market street, had committed suicide Thursday by taking a heavy dose of strychnia. Carney stated, as Gates claimed, that the Platt woman had committed suicide because he (Carney) had refused to marry her. Coroner Beck at once nvestigated, but found no such number on West Market street, and no woman by that name. At the coroner's suggestion Gates went to the Waverly House to see Carney, but the latter had vanished. Coroner Beck believes that the report is the work of a Republican Primaries Elect Delegates to Convention To-Day.

Largest Attendance Ever Known at Marion County Precinct Meetings-Contests Considered-The Delegates.

There has never been such an attendance of Republicans at primaries in this city or in this county as there was yesterday, when delegates were selected to the county convention, which is to be held in Tomlinson Hall, beginning at 8 o'clock this morning. In many of the out townships the primaries were held in the afternoon, and there was much surprise at the heavy outpouring of farmers, who have started in in earnest to show their allegiance to the party that will bring good times back again. The primaries in the city were held at terrowd 7:30 o'clock, and in hardly an instance was the room or hall in which the meeting was held sufficient to hold the crowd. The Southside meetings would have led one to believe that that portion of the city has been overwhelmingly Republican for years. In Democratic Gibraltars, where Republican votes were very scarce a few years ago, there were big crowds. On the North Side the attendance was exceedingly large. The votes for delegates were close in cer-

The committee on credentials, consisting of Ferdinand Winter, E. W. Anderson, Albert Baker, Smiley N. Chambers, Frank B. Davenport, Edward H. Dean, Dan-Waite Howe and George W. Lancaster, met in Superior Court, Room 1, in the courthouse, at 8 o'clock. Ralph Graves and John Hightower, two | The committee on permanent organization will consist of J. W. Fesler, Cyrus J. Clark, Albert W. Moore, Lew G. Akin and John T. Wren

The committee worked until a late hour last night settling the contests that were latter denied. Graves then demanded that placed before it, and the names of those whom the committee declared delegates appear in the list given below. Chairman Moores will call the convention to order promptly at 8 o'clock, and the convention will then proceed at once to business. It is expected that the work will hold the convention throughout the entire day. Only delegates will be admitted to the first floor, and admission to the hall will be entirely by ticket. Mr. Justus C. Adams will probably be chosen as chairman. The following is a list of the delegates as far as they were sent in last night:

ONE COMPANY A FAKE.

(Concluded from First Page.) draft by the cabinet company on the Tufts Cabinet Company, of New York. It was accepted by P. B. Coffin, secretary.

At this point Mr. Winter interposed a motion to strike out all of that part of the evidence relating to the Tufs Cabinet Company's acceptance beauty and the company acceptance and the company pany's acceptance because the paper said to have been accepted by it was not described in any of the counts of the in-

Mr. Kern said they would show that there was no such company as the Tufts Cabinet Company, of New York, in exist-ence. He afterwards modified this by saying they would show that the Tufts company, of which P. B. Coffin was secretary, was a pure fiction, but that there was a bona fide Tufts Cabinet Company. The motion of Mr. Winter was overruled. The witness then took the books of the cabinet company and examined them to find the state of the account between the Tufts Cabinet Company, of New York, and the Indianapolis Cabinet Company. He said the index showed no account with the Tufts company. He was then asked if, in going over the books of the cabinet company, he ever saw the name of the Tufts company entered upon them. He answered company entered upon them. He answered that he did not remember having seen this name upon the books. He said the acceptance on the Tufts company draft was in the handwriting of the defendant, P. B. Coffin, and the body of the draft in that of the defendant A. S. Reed. He said the cabinet company received credit for this draft, and checked against it as so much cash deposited. He said the Tufts draft was never sent forward for collection. It was taken out on Feb. 13, 1893, by a note of was taken out on Feb. 13, 1893, by a note of the Tufts company for $7,500, dated Feb. 6, 1893, and payable in ninety days. This note was taken out May 15, 1893, by a draft of the United States Office Furniture Company on the Indianapolis Office Furniture Company, of New York. This draft was for $7,500, and was never sent forward for collection. It was never paid, and came into the hands of the receiver as part of the assets of the bank. The witness then began a history of the other draft deposited on Nov. 5, 1892. It was a draft on the Boston branch by the cabinet company for $7,500. It was taken out Feb. 27, 1893, by a draft of the cabinet company on the Wooten company for $7,500. On that day it was entered on the "scratcher" as charged to the loan account

"scratcher" as charged to the loan account, but was not entered on the discount registor and in the loan account till March 10, 1893. This draft of the cabinet company on the Wooten company for $7,500 was taken out June 22 by a draft drawn by the cabinet company on the Boston company for the same amount. This draft was accepted by F. A. Coffin, president, but was not paid. The witness said when the original draft was deposited it was treated as so much cash. This answer was objected to as the conclusion of the witness, and he said it was checked against the same as eash. In answer to a question the witness then said, purging the account of the credit of these two drafts deposited on Nov. 5, 1892, the overdraft of the cabinet company would have been $28,156.34.

The books of the Boston branch were then placed before the witness and he was asked to examine the account of the cabinet company upon them and see if there was any entry upon them relating to the draft of the cabinet company drawn June 22. He said he 'ound no such entry. The books of the Wooten company were then brought forward and examined for an entry of the $7,500 dra't drawn by the cabinet company on the Wooten company under date of Feb. 27, 1893. He said there was no entry of this draft on toe books. Then the books of the Boston company were again referred to and the witness asked if at any time during the month of November, 1893, there was an entry of the $7,500 oraft. He said there was no such entry during this month. The witness then read all the checks drawn by the cabinet company on Nov. 5, 1893.

The witness then took individual ledger "W," "A to K," of the bank under date of Jan. 16, 1893. He said the cabinet company on that day was charged with a check for $6,014.84 and was credited with a deposit of $4,813.16. The attention of the witness was called especially to an item of $4,020.03. This was the amount of the item after deducting the discount. The original item had been $4,131. It was a draft on the London branch drawn by the cabinet company. On that day a check for $4,131 was drawn upon the bank by the cabinet company and paid. The witness then gave a history of the London draft. It was replaced April 19, 1893, by another draft drawn for $6,925.50. This last draft also took up a draft of $2,794.50, drawn on the London branch by the cabinet company. This draft for $6,925.50 was never sent forward for collection. It was taken out July 21, 1893, by a draft of the cabinet company on the London branch for a like amount. This last draft is now a part of the assets of the bank. The witness then took the books of the cabinet company and turned to the account with the London branch. He was asked to examine them to see if they contained any reference to these transactions with London. He examined the account under date of Jan. 10, 1893, and said it would indicate that the Chicago draft purchased by the cabinet company from the bank on that date and paid in Chicago had been sent to London. The evidence was then directed to count No. 11 and the questions propounded by Assistant District Attorney Corr. On the books of the bank the witness turned to the account of the cabinet company under date of June 17, 1893. The books showed an overdraft of $10.106.08 at the close of business the day before. At the close of business on June 17 there was an overdraft of $1,691.25. On that day a check for the cabinet company's pay roll amounting to $1,850 had been paid in cash by the bank. On the same day the cabinet company was credited with deposits amount The deposit ticket for this day, which was produced, showed that this was in two tems. One of them was the draft for $1,175.08 on R. Boker & Co., of Mexico City, Mexico, which was introduced in evidence on Thursday. The other consisted of sundry drafts aggregating $9,154.52. These produced and posit ticket was in the handwriting of A. S. Reed. None of these drafts was forwarded for collection. They were put into the "cash items." They should have been put in the remittance account and forwarded for collection. The witness said before the deposit of these drafts the account of the cabinet company with the bank was overdrawn $10,106.08. These drafts were held as "cash items" till July 13, 1893, when another batch of drafts, amounting to $12,330.88, were put in to take their place and also to take the place of $3,176.36 in drafts which had been sent forward for collection and returned unpaid. The witness Precinct 1-Lemuel Edwards, Joseph Hor-ton, Dr. B. Ratliff, Joel Mills and David said that on July 13, 1893, drafts to the amount of $12,330.90 were deposited by the cabinet company. There were three drafts, one of them on the American Desk Seating Company, of Chicago, the Precinct 3-D. A. Stanton, C. List, John diana Cabinet Company, of Boston, for $6,733.90. All of these drafts were held by the bank as "cash items" till the date of the failure. At that time the overdraft of the cabinet company was about $19,000. These drafts were not entered on the books of the cabinet company till Aug. 7, 1893, which was the day that company made an assignment. The government then directed its evidence to counts thirty-seven and thirtyeight. The witness turned to the account of the cabinet company with the bank under date of March 29, 1898. The account of the cabinet company on that day was overdrawn $3,147.54 On the next day the cabinet company checked out $17,740.95. The cabinet company was credited with deposits on that day amounting to $20,480,76 There were two deposit tickets for the amount. These tickets showed the deposit

BEATEN BY THE REDS

The Hoosier Club Not Yet Up to National League Standard.

It Scored but Two Runs Yesterday to Cincinnati's Twelve-A Good Team That Needs Practice.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CINCINNATI, April 13.-The Indianapolis team did not play as good ball to-day as it was expected the Hoosiers would put up, but they compared favorably with other teams of their class that have played here. Mauck pitched, and the Reds found the ball twelve times in the nine innings, one of the hits being the first home run of the season. Mauck made two errors that cost two runs, and his support was ragged at times. Cross was almost invincible, and only seven safe hits were made off him. The Hoosiers scored their first run in the second inning. Devinney made a hit, stole second, and went to third on Murphy's wild throw to head him off and Latham's muff. He came home on Gray's single. Plock got his first on balls, but was forced at second, and Mauck went out on a fly to right. Two errors, a wild throw and a base on balls in the sixth resulted in another run. Two hits were made in the ninth, with one man out, but the side was retired before a run came in. Holliday made a home run in the fifth with three men on bases. Graham's third base play was a feature of the game, and he attracted much attention. He had six assists and three put outs, and some of them were of the sensational order. McTammany hit the ball hard three times, and it landed away out in the field, but a "Red" was there each time. He got a cracking two-bagger in the seventh. Holliday robbed Gray of a home run in the eighth by a circus catch. The visitors hit the ball hard, and the Cincinnati outfielders had thirteen chances. Westlake caught a good game. The Hoosiers seem to be a lively crowd, and a little more practice will put them away up. The same teams play to-morrow and Sunday. The weather was warm and pleasant and the attendance was about five hundred. Score:

A Cigar Solicitor Realizes $15 on Them and Lands in Jail.

About a week ago Charles McKenzie asked for assistance at J. M. Ryder's cigar-making establishment on Washington street, near Mississippi. Mr. Ryder gave him work soliciting orders, furnishing him several boxes of cigars for samples. For the first few days McKenzie was diligent and received the entire confidence of Mr. Ryder, who guaranteed for him a week's board at the Illinois House. Wednesday McKenzie went out for a day's work as usual, but did not appear in the even-ing. He had with him several boxes of clears, which, it was afterwards learned, he had disposed of for about $15. The police were informed yesterday that he was in Greenfield, and detective Frank Wilson was sent to bring him to this city. McKenzie was slated last night on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Composed of the choicest, concentrated vegetable extracts, their cost is much more than is that of other pills found in the market, yet from forty to forty-four "Pellets" are put up in each sealed glass vial, as sold through druggists, and can be had at the price of the more ordinary and cheaper made pills. Dr. Pierce prides himself on having been first to introduce a Little Liver Pill to the American people. Many have imitated them, but none have approached his "Pleasant Pellets" in excellence.

For all laxative and cathartic purposes the "Pleasant Pellets" are infinitely superior to all "mineral waters," sedlitz powders, "salts," castor oil, fruit syrups (so-called), laxative "teas," and the many other purgative compounds sold in various forms. There is a love of home and a veneration for womanhood in this country that will vehemently resent the position assumed by the Kentucky lawyer; and whatever the verdict of the jury may be, that of the people will be the strongest condemnation of Breckinridge, not alone for his crime but for the vile defense by which he seeks self-justification. That a man would go before an American jury with such a plea shows the depths of immorality to which he has sunk and the low esteem in which he holds our boasted civilization.
